2 KILLED WHEN TRUCKS PILE UP NEAR ASHLAND

Four Vehicles Figure in Crash Early Today at Federal Highway Intersection.

Two World War II veterans were killed and a third man was injured in a collision of three trucks and a station wagon at the intersection of U. S. routes 250 and 224, five miles east of Greenwich, at 1:20 a. m. today.

The dead are Steve Swedron, 24, of Clay Center, O., driver of the station wagon, and Merrill E. Phillips, 29, of Marion, Ind., who was driving a truck.

Arnold Jones, of Burkett, Ind., another truck driver, suffered a sprained back. The fourth man in the crash, Andrew Kato, of Akron, escaped injury.

State highway patrolmen at Bellevue said Swedron, headed south on Route 250, in the station wagon, failed to observe a stop sign and drove in front of a truck driven by Jones who was headed west on Route 224. After Jones' truck collided with the station wagon, it swerved across the highway and was struck by a truck driven by Phillips, going east on Route 224.

Kato, who was following Jones on Route 224 turned his truck into the ditch to avoid crashing into the wreckage of the other vehicles

Swedron and Phillips were killed instantly, patrolmen said. Swedron died of a fractured skull and Phillips was crushed beneath the trailer of Jones' truck. The station wagon and truck driven by Phillips were demolished and the other two were badly damaged.

The bodies of Swedron and Phillips were taken to the Fitch funeral home at New London where arrangements are incomplete. State patrolmen notified of the accident by a passing motorist, are trying to reach the families of the victims.

Phillips was an employe of the Harwood Trucking company of Marion and Swedron worked for Paul Butler, Inc., of Toledo, a drive-away company.

The wreckage was taken to garages in Norwalk and New London.

Ashland Pilot Brings Ship in With Minor Damage.

ASHLAND — Harold Brenstetter, instructor, and Claude Sandburg, student pilot and former communications officer with the AAF, narrowly escaped injury Monday at 6:40 p. m. when one wheel of the training plane they were flying failed to lock into position for a landing.

A radio message to the field tower from the hapless plane brought fire-crash apparatus and an ambulance to the Ashland air field.

Brenstetter, however, was successful in his attempt at a one-wheel landing. The plane was only slightly damaged and neither he nor ex-Captain Sandburg, who is obtaining flying instruction under the GI bill of rights, suffered injuries.

Shaw Says Nazis Only Share Guilt

LONDON —(INS)— The irrepressible George Bernard Shaw said today that the use of the atomic bomb precluded the right of the Allies to kill the Nazis on trial at Nuernberg.

The aged playwright in a letter to a London newspaper said: "After dropping atomic bombs on helpless civilians we are hardly in a moral position to hang anyone, no matter how logical a case we have built up against them as war criminals.

LIGHTNING KILLS BOY

YORKVILLE, O. —(INS)— Eight-year-old John Melvin Fry was killed instantly last evening when struck by lightning while sitting in a tree during a storm. A neighbor, Mike Kuzma, was knocked down by the same bolt but was uninjured.

City Gets Promise of Air Unit

Mansfield is in line for a state guard fighter plane squadron and hangars to house the planes if the city will install concrete flooring for the hangars, a guard official today notified the city.

The guard would ship the hangars to Mansfield's airport and erect them if spare hangars can be located and if the city provides the flooring, Col. Lamont Saxton, guard officer, stated.

Other buildings would also be shipped to Mansfield at guard expense for administration and storage purposes if government flying agencies approve, Saxton stated.

Army Air Force officials also are considering assigning a reserve flying unit to the city, the official wrote.

This information was contained in a letter from Colonel Saxton at Columbus, to John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce.

Plan Meeting.

Routzon conferred with Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and Vaughn said today that an attempt will be made to meet with State Guard officials to discuss the fighter squadron and reserve unit.

Colonel Saxton, senior air instructor of a guard wing at Columbus, said that it has been decided to "put a fighter squadron at Mansfield, providing facilities could be obtained."

He said that an attempt is being made to procure two hangars from Lunken field, Cincinnati, for shipment to Mansfield.

BRITISH STAGE PALESTINE RAID

3,000 Airborne Troops Sweep Tel Aviv Area.

JERUSALEM — (INS) — Three thousand British airborne troops today arrested the entire male population, between the ages of 15 and 20, of Ramat Gan, near Tel Aviv, and herded all into barbed wire detention pens.

Only two boxes of illegal pamphlets and some printing machinery were found during an inch-by-inch search of the village.

The secret radio, "Voice of Tel Aviv," told its audience to stand by "for most important instructions." The British sought unsuccessfully to break up the broadcast by "jamming" it.

Earlier, authorities announced arrest of 33 suspected saboteurs. Three were dead and eleven injured in the latest wave of violence, timed to coincide with the opening of the London conference on Palestine.

British troop reinforcements were dispatched to trouble centers to quell the spreading disturbances.

The latest fatal casualty was a British army sergeant who was killed by extremists while investigating an explosion near Petah Tiqva.

Three Sappers were injured removing mines from rail installations

WCTU Plans to Fight Injunction

CINCINNATI—(INS)—The Women's Christian Temperance Union today planned to fight an injunction suit which seeks to nullify the old 1888 statute which bars the sale of liquor within two miles of an agricultural fair.

The suit was filed yesterday in the Hamilton county common pleas court in an effort to prevent enforcement of the ban at the Carthage fair, which opens tomorrow and runs through Saturday. Unless successful, the fair will dry up a large portion of greater Cincinnati.

AGREES TO PAY

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Yugoslavia has agreed tentatively to pay indemnity for the five American lives lost last month when Yugoslav fighters shot down two unarmed U. S. Army transports, but is still balking on compensation for the lost planes, Acting Secretary of State William L. Clayton announced today.

COURT HALTS POWER STRIKE

Last Minute Order Prevents Pittsburgh Blackout.

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— A court order, stressing the public interest and welfare, brought a quick end today—at least temporarily—to a strike of electric power employes which had threatened paralysis of an 817-square mile area embracing 1,500,000 people.

The order forbade any activities "which will imperil the lives, property, health and well being of the citizens."

Just as strikers were beginning to leave their posts to take up picket stations, Judge Walter P. Smart handed down the order directing the Independent Association of Employes of the Duquesne Light Co., to "rescind and recall any order declaring a strike." It enjoined the union from "interfering with the operation of any auxiliary equipment of Duquesne Light Co., the city of Pittsburgh or any other suppliers of power. It forbade picketing.

The order, directed against the company as well as the union, ordered officers and directors of the utility "to enter into bona fide negotiations with the Independent association and to work out a sound and permanent labor policy which will prevent the recurrence of disputes between them and their workers." The company was told to "render adequate and continuous power."

The city of Pittsburgh and its health director, Dr. I. Hope Alexander, petitioned for the injunction as business and industry was beginning to curtail operations in preparation for an emergency. Some 1,200 street cars left their routes to help save power.

Today, all was headed back toward normal.

SEEKS KILLER

Posse Trails Man Wanted For Shooting Two Officers.

KEYSER, W. Va.—(U.P.)—A posse of more than 100 men, with orders to shoot to kill, today searched the mountains and valleys of this area for Mark McCauley, about 33, who state police said shot and killed State Trooper Joe Horne and Tucker County Sheriff O. G. Hovatter when the officers attempted to arrest him in connection with the theft of a coal truck.

County Attorney Vernon E. Rankin, in charge of the search, was quoted as saying: "I hope they don't take him (McCauley) alive. I don't want to have to try him for killing a peace officer."

Husbands Attention! Wives Outdrive You

Safety Council Finds Women Have Fewer Auto Accidents—and Mansfield Statistics Prove It.

Mansfield husbands who cross their fingers every time wifey backs the family bus out of the garage and heads down-town should read this.

Women drivers—particularly wives—have come in for special commendation by the National Safety council and by Mansfield's Traffic Commissioner Frend Boals

"I hate to admit it," Boals chuckled, "but women drivers are more careful than men. They take fewer chances."

The council has gone farther. It has established a "Wonder Wives" club.

Boals cited statistics to back up his assertion.

In Mansfield, he said, only 22 women were among 403 drivers booked for traffic violations through August this year.

Further: of the 633 accidents in that period, only 107 involved women drivers and none of the city's four 1946 fatalities involved women.

The national council's "Wonder Wives" club is open to any wife "who has driven 10,000 miles without an accident or traffic violation" and can "obtain a signed statement from her husband to that effect."

The statement should be sent to the National Safety Council, 20 North Wacker drive, Chicago.

MAINE VOTES

GOP Wins; Voters Turn Down Soldier Bonus.

PORTLAND, Me.—(U.P.)—Republicans scored their sixth consecutive sweep of the five major offices as Maine held the nation's first 1946 election, incomplete returns showed today. But some observers believed the victors' margins were insufficient to prove conclusively that "as Maine goes so goes the nation."

Repudiating two referendums concerning payment of $150 bonuses to World War II veterans, a somewhat apathetic electorate reelected a Republican senator, governor and three congressmen by margins of from two to three-to-one.

BOWLES RUNS

ESSEX, Conn. —(U.P.)— Former Economic Stabilization Director Chester Bowles announced today that he would be a candidate for governor at the Democratic state convention here Sept. 16-17. He will be opposed by Lieut.-Gov. Wilbert Snow, Wesleyan university English professor.

REAL AUTUMN WEATHER DUE

Cool, Clear Conditions Are Forecast For Tomorrow.

Real autumn weather is promised Mansfielders tomorrow in the wake of today's rain. The forecast for tonight is cooler. Wednesday is expected to be clear and cool, bringing an end to the unseasonably warm and humid conditions over the state. The air is expected to be dry and the temperature moderate by Thursday.

Rainfall as recorded in the past 24 hours at the Hayesville weather station was .23 inch. High temperature was 82 and low 66. At noon the reading was 71.

The extended forecast calls for warmer by Friday afternoon and scattered showers again Sunday.

Washington, D. C., was one of the hottest places in the nation yesterday. The mercury climbed to 93 as compared with 88 in New Orleans. Bismarck, S. Dakota, last night had a cool 43

Black Cat Would Make It Complete

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— Melvin Gaston, 48, had more than one reason today to look forward with apprehension to this coming Friday, Sept. 13.

Gaston was arrested early Sunday by Daly City police who booked him on the following charges: Drunken driving, reckless driving, driving without lights, driving over a center white line and driving through a safety zone. Gaston was released on $100 bail but must appear in Daly City police court to answer the charges Friday, the 13th.

OPEN TRAILER CAMP

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A trailer camp for about 175 Ohio State university students will be opened at the Ohio State fairgrounds on Sept. 23.

ASHLAND ROAD SPEED LIMIT SET AT 35 MPH

In an attempt to eliminate accidents, the speed limit on U. S. Route 42 from the Mansfield city limits to the Richland-Ashland county line was reduced from 50 to 35 miles per hour yesterday, by direction of Perry T. Ford, state director of highways.

The action was taken simultaneously with the posting of the new 35 mph limit signs along the route, known grimly as "the bloody six" miles.

Corporal J. L. Bishop, officer in charge of the Mansfield State Highway Patrol post said the change was necessary because of the bad accident record for this route. He said it was also a result of traffic and engineering studies designed to eliminate traffic accidents.

Corp. Bishop added: "We will attempt to enforce the new speed limit to the best extent of our manpower."

AFL BOYCOTTS BOARD HEARING

Shipowners Urge Reversal of Wage Decision.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Striking AFL Maritime Unions today boycotted a wage stabilization board hearing aimed at finding a solution to the worst shipping strike in the nation's history.

Pacific shipowners urged the wage stablization board to reverse a wage decision which touched off the strike, arguing that such action would end the walkout and avert "at least two others."

The boycott was voted by the strike strategy committee of the Seafarer's International union and the Sailors Union of the Pacific at a New York meeting as the effects of the six-day walkout spread rapidly to other sections of the nation's economy.

The board, however, went ahead with the hearing — the first concrete government step to bring an end to the paralyzing strike.

The case of the AFL Maritime unions, which seek a board reversal of the wage decision that led to the strike, will be presented by the shipowners themselves inasmuch as they agreed to the raises which the board rejected. Also represented at the board hearing was the Marine Firemen Union (independent).

Specifically, they protested the board decision which disapproved wage increases that were $5 and $10 a month higher than those approved last June for CIO able bodied seamen. The board said the CIO contract set a pattern for the industry and that shipowners could not cite greater increases to support requests for higher freight rates.

The AFL unions replied by launching a strike that won support of all other AFL and CIO Maritime unions, thus idling 500,000 seagoing and dockside personnel and more than 3,000 vessels.

FIGHT FLARES

Peace Negotiations Fail to Check Chinese War.

NANKING — (INS) — Fighting flared with renewed intensity in North China and Manchuria today while Nanking awaited the return of General George C. Marshall from Kuling with some word which might break the deadlocked negotiations between warring Chinese Nationalists and Communists.

The bitterest fighting raged in the outskirts of beleaguered Tatung as the Communists strove to smash defenses before two Nationalist rescue columns reached the city.

Family Quarrel Ends In Slaying

PORTSMOUTH—(INS)—A family argument was blamed by Portsmouth police today for the fatal shooting of James F. Taylor, 46, a parcel delivery operator.

Taylor died in a hospital last night of a head wound which authorities said was inflicted by his brother-in-law, Foster E. Stafford, 37. Stafford was arrested as Coroner Virgil Fowler returned a homicide verdict.

Butchers Over Nation Report 'No Supplies'

Retailers In City See Little Hope For More Meat

From Los Angeles to Cincinnati the nation's meat counters are virtually empty today.

In Mansfield the situation is growing steadily worse. A number of meat markets remain open, but it is to sell other items than meat.

A survey showed nine retailers without meat. Two failed to answer their telephone indicating they might be closed. Others said they had a few cold cuts only, or just some "odds and ends."

Markets which reported no fresh meat on hand were Bazley, Lahm's, Brunn, Boston, Haring, Brubach and Schuttera.

Brubach's market reported that they not only didn't have any meat but were closed.

Lahm's reported only five pounds of bologna left at 8:45 a. m.

P. J. Kinkel of the Kinkel meat market said "We have a little meat but will run out soon. We were supposed to get some yesterday but didn't."

Won't Promise Supply.

The U-Save market reported that they would stay open whether there was any meat or not because they also handle groceries, but said they had only a little fresh meat and cold cuts.

"Terrible" said a spokesman at Schuttera's, "we still have some cold cuts and a little boiling meat, but it's sold."

Others said that packers wouldn't promise them "a pound of meat," and a few said that they might have some in Thurs-

Decision Due 'Any Day' on Port Service

Preliminary decisions on the applications of airlines to serve Mansfield's new $2,000,000 airport are expected from the Civil Aeronautics board "almost any day," the News-Journal learned today.

The office of J. Harry McGregor, congressman from Ohio's 17th district, notified the News-Journal that action is expected within a few days while J. R. Harrington, airport manager, said he was told to expect it "hourly."

Harrington said the CAB's examiners are to make their recommendations in the Great Lakes area case, in which Mansfield's airport is included, to the CAB itself "almost any hour now."

"And while the examiners' report is not by any means final, it will give Mansfield a good weather vane by which to judge the later action of the board itself. The board's action, which will amount to a final decision, will probably come anywhere from 30 to 90 days after the examiners' report is made," Harrington said

After the report of the examiners is made, the CAB must hold oral hearings in Washington. The Great Lakes area case includes applications from 200 airlines to serve some 452 airports in 11 states, Harrington reported.

Greeks Ask Slavs To Release Flier

ATHENS — (INS) — The Greek government today instructed its minister in Belgrade to request Yugoslavia to return the Spitfire airplane which was forced down Friday on Yugoslav territory.

The request also included a demand for release of the pilot who was seized when the plane landed.

CRASH KILLS TWO

ATHENS —(AP)— Two men were killed yesterday in a collision between a loaded gasoline truck and a bus, but none of the 5,000 gallons of spilled fuel caught fire. The dead were Odell L. Gunter, 27, of Union City, Ind., driver of the bus, and Ed Camel, 25, of Coolville, a hitch-hiker.

Many Store Shelves Bare In Nation's Largest City

NEW YORK — (INS) — Food stocks dwindled rapidly in New York today as the truck strike crippled movement of new supplies into the city. No progress of any kind was reported toward settlement of the week old walk-out.

The strike left hundreds of stores short of food. In many of them, especially the chain grocery and meat markets, the shelves were absolutely bare except for certain staples.

Both the A. & P. and Safeway stores announced that unless the strike is settled by 6 p. m. Saturday they will close their stores in the metropolitan area. About eight thousand employes of the chains and 740 stores would be affected by the move.

Independents Stronger.

Independent grocers and butchers were in better shape than the chain stores and spokesmen said they had enough food on hand to keep the city from starving as long as perishables are delivered.

The National Sugar Refining company took the most drastic step and closed down its Long Island city refinery, one of the largest in the area. The company said it was unable to deliver sugar to its customers.

Mayor William O'Dwyer placed responsibility for continuance of the strike of Local 807 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, AFL. O'Dwyer said the other two unions involved in the strike had set up wage negotiating committees but that Local 807 which has some 12,000 members had refused to even appoint a negotiating committee.

Expands Police Force.

At the same time O'Dwyer ordered 2,000 policemen added to the force. His order directed that 1,000 new "cops" be added to the force Monday and another 1,000 next Monday. O'Dwyer said the rookie policemen will wear army khaki and police arm-bands until uniforms are available for them. He denied they would be assigned as guards or drivers on trucks.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, September 11.

IT IS probable that some sudden and quite breathtaking turn of events may precipitate a situation in which the final outcome depends upon a clever, sound, shrewd and at the same time workable, constructive and progressive program, in which the future security as well as current adjustments are vital.

At the same time, the mentality is in a confused or indecisive attitude, perplexed and incoherent because of the suddenness of events. But keen wits, and not emotional urges, lead to far-reaching and safe conclusions. Keep calm.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the advent of a surprising turn of events, with strange or unprecedented situations, demanding keen analysis and straight thinking rather than rash moves, snap judgments or emotional urges. The sharp turn may have the effect of bewilderment and confusion, with reactions of a perilous nature, with wisdom born of mature thought and experience be the final factor in making decisions.

Large issues are at stake, with surprising crises, of long-range significance, but in all relations keep poise and amiability even when adjustments and compromises are indicated.

A child born on this day may have sound ambitions, with many gifts although its judgment may be swayed by emotional impulses.

IF YOUR HEART IS YOUNG AND GAY . . . You'll go for Vera Maxwell's bow-tie suit in John Walther's handsome heathery tweed of fuchsia and black. The nipped-in jacket with its brief cutaway peplum and high pockets, the young shirt-collar and the swing skirt are 1946 news. And there's a beret to match.

She Wants One To Wait While She Decides About Another

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in love with two boys, or at least I think so.

One is in the merchant marine, and the other a civilian. The one in the merchant marine was the first one I met, and I was in love with him. When he left to go overseas, he asked me to wait, but since then, I have fallen in love with the civilian. This second one knows about the first one, and that he is coming back to the States in four months. He has asked me to marry him this month, but I'm afraid I want to wait and see the one in the merchant marine before saying anything.

Should I do this, or go ahead and marry the civilian? I have been going steady with him for three months.

D.B.B.

Anyone who thinks she's in love with two men at once isn't likely to be really in love with either of them, D.B.B. Being in love means that you just can't see anybody but the one on whom you have set your heart.

If you don't like the one here at home well enough to say "Yes" without waiting to look somebody else over; and if you don't like the one who's overseas sufficiently to know without any doubt that he's the boy for you, then you aren't ready to marry either one.

Far better to stay single until you can make up your mind without asking me or anyone else what to do.

Dear Miss Fairfax::

I am 19 years old, soon will be 20 and very much in love with a boy who just turned 18 I have been out with him a few times and I think he likes me very much, and I know there is nobody but him for me. He is still in the service and expects to get out soon

The last date I had with him, he got fresh with me. I didn't give him a chance at that, and of course he made it an excuse to be mad. But he really wasn't.

The people I work with know I love him, and every time they see him they try to get us together again But he gives all kinds of excuses, and when they tell me, I know it is a lie, because every chance I get to talk to him, he seems to tell me different. I believe he is jealous because I work with men

I heard that the reason he doesn't ask me to go out again is because he says I won't go out with him I told him what I heard, and he says he just wants to go back to the service with a clear conscience. What did he mean?

"In Love In Vain".

I'm rather inclined to believe that he meant he wanted to go back to the service entirely free of "entangling alliances". And I believe too, that you'd be wise to stop kidding yourself into thinking you might be able to get him interested in you

I'm afraid it's not jealousy that keeps him away, but just plain indifference Why not be smart, and give him a little of the same?

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swellings, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills. —Adv.

Hey, Husky—What's The Idea?

Now don't tell us it's your waistline . . . or are you trying to stand on your head? No? . . . Oh, just warming up for some tussling with Dad, eh . . . Looks like you'll do alright, too.

Sure, we know you drink lots of Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk, and we know why—you like it! Mother found that out when she gave you the first bottle. She knows Homogenized Milk tastes better and that you can digest it quicker and easier than regular milk. And because of its uniformity, Mother can prepare your feeding formulas quicker and more accurately. But that's not all —

Every quart has 400 units of Vitamin D, the vitamin babies like you need to help build sturdy bones and good teeth . . . the vitamin that will help keep you strong and healthy during the winter months ahead. Nutrition experts recommend 400 units daily—the amount in Isaly's. But, say, here comes Dad, your rumpus pal, so go to it, Baby. There'll be more Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D when you're finished.

Homogenized milk is Pasteurized milk scientifically processed by forcing every drop through very small openings at extremely high pressure. This produces nearly 10 times more butterfat globules. These tiny cream particles then combine with the milk and never separate. Thus, there's cream through the entire quart. Call us now—4217-6—and tell us when to begin delivery of this richer, more nourishing milk.

Earl Carroll, sandwiched between two Amazonian browgirls, ogling the similar exhibits on the stage at the Carnival.

All Around Town: A well-known showman dashed into a local pub the other night with eyes afire and tongue wagging in praise of "The Jolson Story," which he had just seen previewed. "That Larry Parks!" he extolled. "What a performance. He sings better than Jolson EVER did!" He quieted down considerably and began to look like a big sheep when someone told him gently that Jolson himself had dubbed in all the songs for Parks, while the young actor merely did an exact job of mouthing the words . . . Paco, the male interest in the Trio Gitano at El Chico, was a bull-fighter until one of the toros tossed him instead of vice versa.

In The Margin: Tin Pan Alley is mulling over what a difference five minutes make. Four years ago, a femme songwriter named Gladys Shelley (recently responsible for "The Duchess Misbehaves") dreamed up a ditty called "Ten Minutes More" for a Summer stock musical, entitled "Heels Together," which featured Joan Roberts and Lee Dixon. Nothing happened to either the show or the song. This season Sammy Cahn and Julie Styne indited a rhythm piece, "Five Minutes More," and you can't pass a jukebox without hearing it

WHAT THE MERRY LITTLE BREEZE BROUGHT

Of happiness he plants the seed
Who does a thoughtful kindly, deed.
—Old Mother Nature.

Every day the Merry Little Breezes, the children of Old Mother West Wind, come down from the Purple Hills to the Green Meadows, dance through the trees of the Green Forest, play hide-and-seek in the Old Pasture, ripple the water of the Big River and whisper many things in many ears. Sometimes they get in mischief, but most of the time they are wandering here and there, doing little deeds of kindness and not waiting for thanks, spoiling the plans of crafty hunters one day and saving the lives of those same hunters the next day. All of the timid small folks of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest love the Merry Little Breezes and would hardly know what to do without them.

One of them, wandering about in the Old Pasture, now here, now there, found Reddy Fox curled up behind some bushes at the edge of a little opening. The Merry Little Breeze gently rumpled the long hair of Reddy's handsome red coat, tickled a black ear, picked up something that Reddy would rather have had not picked up, danced out into the middle of the little opening and did a little whirl there, for the Merry Little Breeze was in high spirits.

Then he turned and away he went, hipperty, hipperty, hip, as fast as his small legs could take him.

Then he danced on straight to a little path that led away through the bushes.

"Ha!" cried the Merry Little Breeze, catching sight of a little Rabbit sitting there. "I haven't seen that little scamp before. Not up here in the Old Pasture anyway. I wonder if he knows his way around. The Old Pasture is a dangerous place for little Rabbits who are strangers here. If he hops out into this open place he will be hopping straight into the mouth of Reddy Fox and that would be just too bad. I believe I'll do him a favor. Reddy won't like it, but I don't care. I've done him plenty of favors."

So the Merry Little Breeze danced over to Little Wobblenose, who was trying to make up his mind to go out into the open to look for sweet clover. The Merry Little Breeze tickled the wobbly little nose of the small Rabbit with what had been picked up from Reddy Fox and almost laughed aloud at the face Little Wobblenose made up and his startled look as he sat up very straight and stared across toward where Reddy Fox was hidden. Then he turned and away he went hipperty, hipperty, hip, as fast as his small legs could take him, his funny little white tail bobbing up and down as he ran.

The Merry Little Breeze went right along with him for a little way, tickled his nose again, blew in a long ear, then danced off among the trees. The little Rabbit kept right on going until he was back safe in his bramble-tangle.

"It was the same smell, the very same, and I don't like it. No, sir, I don't like it. It makes me think of teeth, long sharp teeth. I don't know why, but it does," said he, talking to himself. Then he suddenly sat up and his eyes opened very wide as he stared out along the little path by which he had just returned. A thought had popped into his funny little head. "Why, that fellow must have been over there right near where I was!" he exclaimed. "What was he there for? Could he have been watching for me? If he was, what for? After this I'll do my own finding of sweet clover or anything else I eat. I don't like that smell and—and—I don't like that stranger."

Of course, it was the scent of Reddy Fox that the Merry Little Breeze had picked up and with which he had tickled the wobbly little nose of the small Rabbit. Little Wobblenose had smelled it once before when Reddy had visited the bramble-tangle. Now he never would forget it. It would always have a meaning for him. It would mean that red-coated stranger with the long sharp teeth was near or had just passed.

"I'm afraid of that fellow," said Little Wobblenose, thinking it all over. "I always will be. With teeth like his he could eat Little Rabbits, but he won't eat me if I can help it."

He didn't once think of the Merry Little Breeze and what had been done for him by the latter. He wasn't ungrateful. He just didn't think. How easy it is to accept little favors and kindly deeds without thinking.

The next story: "Old Jed Thumper Thumps."

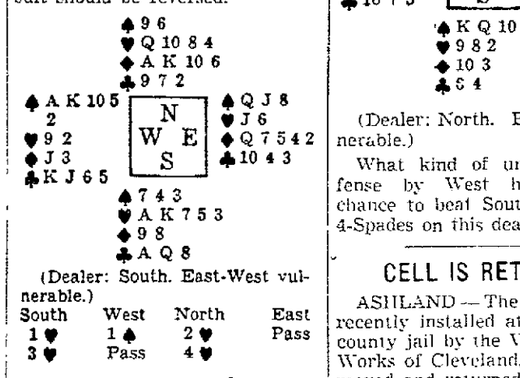
Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

IN "LEARN Bridge Fast," you will find this passage: "A final, simple lesson in winning bridge—you will never receive a better one—is this: Hear all the bids and see all the cards, the exact size of each one." You would think that lesson is only for beginners. But it can be taken to heart by players of high rank, who every once in a while fail to notice the exact size of some spot card. As a consequence, contracts get made or set on which the result should be reversed.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

West raked in the spade K and A and then, to avoid setting up something for South in either trumps or a minor suit, led a third spade, which the dummy ruffed with the heart 4. The heart A and K took out the defenders' trumps and then the diamond A and K were taken.

Next the diamond 6 was led from the dummy. East, who was playing automatically, giving about 20 per cent attention to the game, put on his Q. When South ruffed that, the dummy's 10 became the high diamond. A lead to the heart Q enabled him to use the diamond 10 to discard his club 8. He then lost the club Q finesse, but had his game.

If East had been looking, he would have put the 7 on the diamond 6, plenty high enough since the J, 9 and 8 had already been played, and would have retained his Q to top the 10.

You think that play is so bad, it is childishly feeble-minded? You are right. Yet it is what happens among pretty good players too often. Just such things cause the loss of a good many points in the average session of rubber play.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

What kind of unorthodox defense by West has a fighting chance to beat South's "airtight" 4-Spades on this deal?

National Loop Race At 'Do or Die' Stage

RED SOX NEED ONE WIN TO CLINCH AL PENNANT

By RALPH RODEN, AP Sports Writer.

The do or die stage for the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National league pennant race gets under way today with the Red Birds beginning a 13-game road trip at Philadelphia while the Dodgers entertain the Cincinnati Reds.

The American league's eastern clubs take their last journey through the west with the pace-setting Boston Red Sox needing only to defeat the Detroit Tigers today to clinch their first pennant since 1918.

Leading the Dodgers by two games, the Cards will play the Phils twice and then invade Flatbush for a three-game series.

With the exception of three games at Boston, the Dodgers play the remainder of their 17 games at home. The Cards have only five games left to play at Sportsman's park in St. Louis.

Brooklyn hurling, paced by rookie Joe Hatten and veteran Kirby Higbe, and the return to form of Pete Reiser, have increased the Brooks' confidence in their chances of overhauling the Red Birds.

In their last four games, Brooklyn pitchers have gone the distance. Only once previously this season have the Dodger hurlers gone the route four straight times.

The Red Bird pitching staff has fallen off somewhat, with Howie Pollett and Murry Dickson hit exceptionally hard in their last outings Pollet, winner of 18 games, has been ill. The Red Bird hitters are enjoying some of their biggest days of the season at the plate. Enos (Country) Slaughter has taken a commanding lead in the runs-batted-in department, and Stan Musial continues to pace the league in batting.

In the only game in either league yesterday, the Philadelphia Phillies nosed out the New York Giants, 5-4, under the lights at Philadelphia.

Charley Gilbert broke up the game in the ninth by singling in Andy Seminick from second. Del Ennis clouted a three-run first inning homer off rookie Sheldon Jones to send the Phils off to a 3-0 lead. The Phils entered the ninth leading 4-1, but the Giants staged a scoring spree in which pinch-hitter Ernie Lombardi made a homerun.

Charley Shanz went the route for the Phils while Woody Abernathy and Gene Thompson followed Jones to the hill for the Giants.

Phillips Goes To Lefthalf

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Tommy Phillips, Ohio State's passing wizard from Berea, was switched from quarterback to left half today as Coach Paul Brixler sought to place him in a better spot to engineer the Buck aerial attack.

The move returned Phillips to his old position. He was converted into a signal-caller last spring.

Unexpected development of George Spencer, Bexley sophomore, at quarter made the Phillips transfer possible. The Bucks now have Dick Palmer, Cleveland letterman, Spencer and Billy Doolittle of Mansfield as their top three quarterbacks.

Phillips finds Tommy James of Massillon, 1942 star, Jerry Krall, 1945 incumbent from Toledo, and Rod Swinehart of Wooster in the battle for the left half assignment.

Yesterday's drills saw Jim Crane, Upper Arlington letterman, step into a tentative first string role at right end He stepped ahead of Traian Dendiu of Campbell and Ernie Parks of Canton.

TYGER CUBS OPEN WITH BELLVILLE

Mansfield Senior high Tyger Cubs steal a march on their varsity big brothers Friday when they open the reserve football schedule in an afternoon game at Bellville.

The Tyger varsity swings into action Friday night under the "mazdas" at Stadium field with the Marion Harding Presidents supplying the opposition.

Marion has 12 returning lettermen and boasts one of its heaviest teams in history. Mansfield walloped Harding 37 to 0 in 1945 but the Prexies have been pointing for Friday's game and plan to make the score much closer.

Fred Staub, Senior faculty manager of athletics, has taken over the reins as coach of the Tyger reserve squad with Harry Mehock as assistant mentor. Staub coached the varsity line last season.

The reserve squad is made up e tirely of sophomores and the players are faster than usual. They will operate from the T and single wing formations.

Louis Gregorio, a top-flight guard at Appleseed in '45, has been shifted to quarterback and will alternate with Jim Chamberlin. Joe Letizia, Bob McKown, Ken Carver and Paul Ferguson are the other members of the Cubs' ball-toting brigade.

Carver, a Simpson graduate, runs from tail-back in the single wing and is a good passer and punter. Letizia also handles some of the punting chores while Ferguson tosses the pigskin accurately.

Harry Osbun, a pile-driving back at Appleseed, has been converted end and will work with Paul Hammond and Vince Mennetti. Norbert Shibinski and John Corcoran are the top tackles while Bob Burkhardt and Charles Tuttle look like guard starters.

FRED STAUB

TAKES BIDS ON FALL BALLOTS

Election Board to Receive Offers Until Monday.

Sealed bids from printers on supplying Richland county board of elections with more than 140,000 ballots for the general election Nov. 5 will be opened at a special meeting of the board Sept. 16 at 3:30 p. m., George C. Balliet, chairman, said today.

Invitations for bids have been sent to five Mansfield printing companies for proposals on printing 41,300 party column, 41,300 non-partisan (appeals court judgeship candidacies), and some 57,550 special bond issue and tax levy ballots.

Although only four of 10 proposed tax levies throughout Richland county subdivisions had been officially filed today, the rest are expected to be presented to the board of elections before the deadline at noon Saturday.

The party column ballot this year, for the first time in several general elections, will contain a column for candidates of the Social Labor party. This party has candidates only for governor, lieutenant governor and U. S. senator (full term).

The Democratic and Republican parties will offer candidates for all state offices, representative to congress, U. S. senator, and county commissioner and auditor.

Kindergarten Opens Sept. 30

Classes in Mansfield's only free kindergarten will begin Sept. 30 at Friendly House.

Director Russell Gimbel said today that registration will be held between Sept. 23 and 30 from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. daily. Registration will be held at the same time for all other classes and clubs at the settlement.

Due to lack of facilities and a shortage of teachers and supervisors, kindergarten enrollment will be limited to 40 children. Gimbel said the settlement was short two staff members for kindergarten and older group workers. He invited applications for these positions.

He especially stressed the urgent need for 40 volunteers to give one hour each week to supervising classes and clubs in crafts, sewing, dramatics, social dancing and general group work.

Names Additional Muny Court Deputy

Municipal Court Judge H. H. Schettler today announced the appointment of Miss Mary Bredbeck, 20, of 87 Vennum avenue, as a deputy clerk in municipal court.

Addition of the fifth employe for the court was recently authorized by council because of the sharp, post-war increase in criminal and civil cases.

SET YOUR SIGHTS

It takes a lot of planning to hit a target . . . even more to achieve a goal

There are two kinds of young men. One knows what he wants to do and goes after it. The other is still looking for his niche. The new Regular Army can help both of them.

Suppose, for example, that you're the first kind. You want to go to college but don't have the money. If you enlist in the new Regular Army, you'll have a chance to earn while you learn. Honorably discharged at the end of a three-year enlistment, you are eligible for 48 months of education at any college, trade, or business school for which you can qualify. The U. S. Government will pay your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year, and you'll get $65 a month living allowance—$90 a month if you have dependents.

Or maybe you're the man who hasn't found his spot. An enlistment in the Army will put you in touch with the widest selection of jobs. Army schools offer special training in over 200 trades and skills. When you leave the service you can continue your training at the school best equipped to help you.

Set your sights! Enlist in the new Regular Army now. You can assure yourself of the benefits of the GI Bill of Rights if you enter the Army on or before October 5, 1946. See your nearest Army Recruiting Station for details.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REGULAR ARMY ENLISTMENT

1. Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)

2. Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.

3. A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge.

4. A furlough for men who reenlist within 20 days. Full details of other furlough privileges can be obtained from Recruiting Officers.

5. Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to enlist or reenlist.

6. Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.

7. GI Bill of Rights benefits assured for men who enlist on or before October 5, 1946.

8. Choice of branch of service and overseas theater (of those still open) on 3-year enlistments.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK — Mrs. Frances Perkins, who was Franklin D. Roosevelt's secretary of labor for 12 years, was one of the few truthful persons in his administration. Therefore the lady deserves the benefit of a doubt in discussion of that phase of her memoirs which deals with Roosevelt's decision to run for governor of New York in 1928. But, granting that Mrs. Perkins writes the truth as she knows it, the historical record must allege that she was deceived or incompletely informed and that the facts of the matter are seriously at odds with her report.

For the benefit of the objective historian who consults the reminiscenes of Roosevelt's devotees, satellites and sycophants fifty years hence, this demurrer should be clipped to the tearsheets of Mrs. Perkins' story.

Mrs. Perkins writes that in 1928, Governor Al Smith, the Democratic nominee for president, decided that he needed Roosevelt as his candidate for governor of New York to help him, Smith carry the state. Mrs. Perkins writes that Smith took the phone from Mrs. Roosevelt during the Democratic state convention at Syracuse and pleaded with Roosevelt to accept the nomination. Roosevelt, at Warm Springs, Georgia, refused, but the next night Smith made a personal plea "over and above politics." Mrs. Perkins says Roosevelt weakened and asked to speak to Mrs. Roosevelt. When she took the phone, he gave in.

"He ran primarily to support Smith," Mrs. Perkins wrote. In the closing days of the 1944 campaign, Roosevelt, reversing his earlier estimate of Tom Dewey's strength as a campaigner, took to the road and closed out his own campaign in Boston. His speech there was an appeal to the Irishness and Catholicism of the Boston Democrats, who held Smith in revered memory. In that speech he took advantage of the fact that Al Smith had died a few weeks before, to claim Smith's friendship, which had been withdrawn several years before, as Roosevelt well knew, and said that he ran for the governorship of New York in 1928 "at Smith's request."

This unquestionably was true. It is also true, however, and neither Roosevelt nor Mrs. Perkins has even alluded to the fact, that Roosevelt's decision was not made as a favor to Smith but was based on a financial consideration.

John J. Raskob, who describes himself in Who's Who as a capitalist and an official of General Motors and the Empire State Building, had accompanied Smith to the state convention at Smith's request. I undertake to say this because I called on Smith to ask him about the incidents during the summer of 1944 and he told the story without hesitation.

I say also he had no personal respect for Roosevelt at that time. Raskob was not interested in politics as such, but believed that prohibition was a source of dangerous corruption in the politics and morals of the country and was a crusader for repeal. Smith did telephone Roosevelt twice from Syracuse to Warm Springs and Roosevelt turned him down. Al then asked Raskob to try and he did.

Roosevelt said he wanted to get his health back and moreover, was under financial obligations in his Warm Springs enterprise. Roosevelt had bought this little rundown vacation resort from George Foster Peabody, a rich banker and insurance man, who was also a philanthropist, and had given Peabody notes.

Roosevelt then sold the property to a foundation, himself accepting notes. If he thought Peabody would cancel his notes on the ground that Roosevelt, too, appeared to be a philanthropist, he was mistaken. By telephone Raskob remarked to Roosevelt that Smith seemed to have the notion that he, Roosevelt, felt committed to raise money for Warm Springs.

Raskob asked him if money was all that stood between his present attitude and a decision to accept the nomination. Roosevelt said he would have to raise $250,000 for Warm Springs. Raskob said that, in that case, he would guarantee the $250,000 and underwrite the difference between the amount of money that could be raised in a public appeal for contributions and $250,000. That same night, Raskob wrote a letter to Roosevelt and enclosed his check for $250,000.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

In the intricate argument about th machinery and procedure of peacemaking there has been no express stipulation, so far as I know, on what is the most important point of all. It would appear that we have not clearly reserved the right to review the Italian treaty as a whole, and to decide whether as a whole we can support it as a settlement.

To be sure this right remains if that the treaty cannot come into force until it has been ratified as a whole document by the senate. But the working assumption in Paris seems to be that the treaty is to be agreed to item by item, that each of the 78 articles of the draft is, so to speak, a separate agreement and final for Mr. Byrnes and the American delegation.

If they have reserved the right to review the whole result, to look at the whole picture when the 78 bits and pieces of the mosaic make. M. Molotov does not act as if he knew it. He does not seem to realize that the points on which the Big Four have already agreed are still tentative until the whole treaty is reviewed.

Enough has transpired since the four foreign ministers called the peace conference to raise the gravest doubt about this treaty. It proposes the partition of the province of Venezia Giulia and the internationalization of the Trieste. Both the Italian government and the Yugoslav, the two nations directly involved, have rejected the compromise and denounced it violently. Yet Italy is to be disarmed and her frontier fortifications dismantled while Yugoslavia is to remain armed.

Now obviously this is no settlement whatsoever as between Italy and Yugoslavia. The only condition under which it could become a settlement is that Britain, America and Russia could be counted upon to be firmly united in imposing it on both Italy and Yugoslavia. Since Italy is to be made impotent, it is against Yugoslavia, which remains armed, that the settlement would have to be guaranteed.

Only the Soviet Union can restrain Yugoslavia. For under this strange treaty the British and Americans are to evacuate Italy within 90 days. After that there is nothing to restrain Yugoslavia except such action as the Security Council of the United Nations may take, and the action of the Security Council depends, of course, on the active consent of the Soviet Union. So the whole precarious structure of the settlement rests on a mythical guaranty that Russia will police Tito. But since Russia has said she agrees with Tito's objections to the compromise, there is no guaranty that Russia will police Tito or consent to have the Security Council police him.

It is a question, therefore, whether it would not be better to postpone the settlement of the Italian frontiers as we have postponed the settlement of the Italian colonial empire. Postponement would mean that we continued to have the right to stand guard with the British on the disputed frontier; to agree to this treaty means that we must evacuate our forces.

But unless the compromise which we have agreed to is accepted with some sincerity by Tito and guaranteed expressly by the Soviet Union, there is no point in evacuating the British and American forces. For now at least they enforce a truce. If they had to come back, which would be a perpetual probability, they would be intervening in a war.

SOCIAL AGENCY BUILDING PLAN WILL BE AIRED

Citizens' Council to Explain Recommendation to Five Groups Next Week.

Five Mansfield social agencies will confer next week with the Citizens' Council on Social Survey regarding building plans expected to run into an expansion calling for expenditure of $600,000, to $800,000.

Don Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Citizens' Council, today set up the following schedule of meetings between representatives of the agencies and H. B. Soulen and A. C. Rhoades, acting for the council:

YMCA—noon, Monday, Sept. 16, at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Girl Scouts and YWCA—7:30 p. m. Monday, Sept. 16, at the Chamber of Commerce assembly room.

Friendly House and Salvation Army—7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms.

Groups from the boards of directors of these agencies will hear details of a plan to carry forward their building programs. The plan, adopted by the Citizens' Council, Aug. 14, calls for the agencies to submit their building and program plans and estimates of how much they can raise in their own drives. To the amount each agency raises a very substantial sum will be added proportionately. Dates for the drives will be fixed by the council.

The entire program is an outgrowth of a survey of Mansfield social agencies made some time ago at the expense of the Manufacturers' club of the Chamber of Commerce.

Following recommendations of the survey, a committee consisting of C. S. Lake, chairman, Floyd Dent, Mrs. E. R. Kochheiser, Judge H. H. Schettler and M. P. Wolcott will make recommendations on the establishment of a permanant council of social agencies.

James H. Hoffman and J. C. O'Donnell are formulating regulations governing the present council.

MAP PROMOTION FOR FUND DRIVE

Publicity Chairmen Named For Campaign.

The promotion program for the fall campaign of the Mansfield Community Fund will be mapped out at the first meeting of the publicity committee at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Community Fund office, Walpark building.

Elmer A. Eckert, publicity chairman, said committee members are:

Gilbert, churches; Lowell Bourns, school poster contest; Oliver Hartman and Robert Pealer, co-chairman of the retail merchants committee; and Paul Endriss, chairman. Gilmore Hiett and Bern Fleming, stunts committee.

The campaign has been set for Oct. 14 to Oct. 23, inclusive. It will be directed by W. E. Slabaugh, jr., general chairman and manager.

The first hearing of Community Fund budgets was held last night. Budgets reviewed were those of the YMCA, YWCA, Friendly House, Salvation Army and St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Ex-City Resident Stricken In Elyria

Funeral services were held in Elyria today for Mrs. Lucille Matlox Ferrell, formerly of Mansfield, who died Sunday in the General hospital in Elyria.

Mrs. Ferrell is survived by her husband and one sister. Following services at the Welsh funeral home in Elyria, the body was to be taken to St. Louis, Mo., for burial.

TALKS ON GUNS

Sixteen members of the Richland County Gun Collectors' association, meeting Monday night at the Ohio Fuel Gas company, heard Herbert Witmer talk on "Manhattan Pistols." Witmer also acted as host for the meeting. A gun auction was conducted by Paul Hughes and Cy Hassinger.

Safety Show Postponed

The free safety show scheduled for the Park theater next Saturday morning has been postponed until further notice, it was announced today.

Mrs. Bess Augsburger, secretary of the Richland county chapter of the American Red Cross which is one of three sponsoring groups, said that the free show had been postponed because the films to be used were unavailable.

Other groups sponsoring the safety show are the traffic division of the city police department and the Chamber of Commerce. Use of the Park theater was promised by Ralph Shaffer, manager.

Reports 'Everything Fine' With Split School Plan

The half-day sessions for fifth and sixth graders at Western avenue school started off without a hitch yesterday.

"Everything went just fine and I believe everyone is well satisfied," Jesse M. Clark, principal, said.

The four-hour day schedule, which was strongly protested by parents last week, went into effect on order of the board of education because of limited room space in the building.

"I believe we'll get by with the schedule all right this year," Clark added.

"The parents, for the most part, are settled with the idea, and the greater majority of them have pledged heir support in helping the children with the proper atmosphere for afternoon or morning studying."

Under the plan, fifth and sixth grade pupils attended classes four consecutive hours a day, instead of the interrupted five and one-half hours. Each grade is broken down into two classes, which alternate in morning and afternoon recitation.

WOOSTER FAIR STARTS TODAY

Erect Tents to House Biggest Exhibit in Years.

The Wooster fair, which annually attracts scores of Richland countians, opened today with one of the biggest programs in its history scheduled.

More than 5,000 entries have been received for displays, making it necessary to erect tents on the grounds to house them. Entries are unusually heavy in the flower, baby beef, swine, dairy cattle junior fair, home economics, school, grange, horse and speed department, Fair Secretary Walter J. Buss said.

Entries in the harness races were particularly heavy according to Earl Strock, superintendent. Over 100 trotters and pacers were on the ground, ready for racing today, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 1:30 p. m.

Besides the barn dance jamboree which closes the five-day fair at 8 p. m. Saturday, other special events include: a drill by the Company G, Ohio National Guard at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday; a horse parade at 8 p. m. Thursday and a radio show at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

High school bands from Rittman, Chagrin Falls and Wooster and the Cleveland Browns' Musical Majorettes, are on the week's program.

Spokesmen For 5 Groups Hear Unity Proposal at Meet.

A proposal favoring the organization of a county veterans' council, for the purpose of presenting a united front of veterans and veterans' organizations on important questions of community interest, will be placed before the various veterans' organizations as the result of a meeting of their representatives last night at the city building.

A recent survey made throughout Ohio by M. A. Fulkerson, temporary chairman of the meeting, revealed that a number of veterans and veterans' organizations have been successful in carrying out projects because of the presentation of a united program through a council.

"Anything that helps the community helps the veteran" Fulkerson said. "The veterans' council, while not preventing action by single organizations, will enable the veterans to present a stronger argument on questions which they mutually agree to be of paramount importance," Fulkerson said.

A meeting is scheduled for Oct. 3 when representatives of the veterans' organizations will report back as to whether or not a council is favored by their organization, and as to the manner in which representation on the council should be apportioned if the council is favored.

Attending last night's meeting were William R. Allen of the Veterans' Information center who will serve as an adviser; Walter Rusk and Carl Kahl of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Charles Prosser of the Disabled American Veterans; Ralph Hughes of McVey post, American Legion; Fulkerson, representing the American Veterans' committee, and F. G. Tonnemacher, Elden Becker, and Robert E. Rogers, all of the Amvets.

WANT TO SELL

New York Central Desires to Dispose of Shops.

BUCYRUS — The New York Central railroad shops in Bucyrus, a target of much controversy in Bucyrus during the last 10 years while the city sought to compel the railroad, by terms of a 55-year-old contract, to continue to operate here, may change hands again.

The shops, which went into the unquestioned possession of the railroad with a clear title after payment of a cash settlement to the city more than two years ago, have been in use by the army's transportation corps since.

Left vacant when the transportation corps moved out early this year, a recent communication from the railroad company to the Junior Chamber of Commerce advised that the company would dispose of the shops "to some industry which will provide a payroll for Bucyrus."

The Jaycees were asked to provide descriptive printed matter concerning the town and its advantages to be published with the new prospectus of the shop layout.

And they concluded the festivities at the Walker residence, 24 Bartley avenue, where James celebrated his seventh birthday with the traditional ice cream and three cakes for dessert.

CONFUSED 'OFFICER'—

An unidentified man—at least slightly "tipsy" — stumbled into the intersection of Fourth and Elm streets last night and proceeded to "direct" traffic. Motorists chuckled but ignored his signals as he waved his arms in cop-mocking fashion. Fortunately—or perhaps it was unfortunate—he decided to "go west" before police arrived. An East Fourth street resident had sounded the alarm, fearing that the weaving, would-be cop "would become a casualty." When police got there witnesses said that the under-the-influence traffic "director," had gone west on Fourth street. Officers, however, were unable to track him down, they said.

EXPERT SETS FULL COST AT $153,380,000

Engineer For Pennsylvania Turnpike Says Project Would Pay For Self.

MEDINA—(INS)—A self-supporting, trans-Ohio superhighway, connecting with the famed Pennsylvania turnpike, can be built for $152,380,000, Maj. H. H. Allen, consulting engineer for the Pennsylvania turnpike, reported today after a survey.

State Rep. Ralph Winter (R., Lodi), who heads the group promoting the Ohio turnpike, received Major Allen's report, which said the 239-mile, four-lane highway could be built at an average cost of $638,000 a mile.

Includes All Costs.

The cost included everything, Allen said, even 2¼ per cent interest on the bonds which would be issued to finance the undertaking.

An average of 5,420 vehicles daily would be needed to put the limited access highway on a self-sustaining, self-liquidating basis, Allen reported, if the income from the gasoline tax on gas used by vehicles on the highway is included. If the gas tax income is not included, an average of 6,750 cars will be needed.

However, Allen's firm, the J. E. Greiner company, estimated that the average daily traffic would nearly double the latter figure.

"We estimate the average daily traffic from the period 1950 to 1980, assuming a 30-year term bond period, to be 12,000 vehicles daily," Allen reported.

(Winter previously had stated that he would introduce legislation in the regular session of the legislature to enable the bonds to be issued without cost to the state. When the bonds are paid out the toll would be removed from the road and it would become a part of the state highway system.)

Allen divided the cost into three parts:

Section One, from the Pennsylvarian turnpike (which would be extended from its present terminus to a point near Youngstown) to a point south of Cleveland, would be 55 miles long and cost $38,790,000, an average of $704,000 a mile. It would carry an estimated 17,000 vehicles a day.

Section Two, 112 miles long, would extend to a point south of Toledo, also would be self-liquidating, Allen reported.

Section Three, 72 miles long, would extend to the Indiana state line, and "is on the borderline as far as its self-liquidating features are concerned."

day which was the day that they normally get their supplies.

Wappner's reported nothing much left at 9:10 a. m. and going to close soon.

In line with this a packinghouse salesman reported very little coming into packing houses.

"Our supply for the next few days depends on the farmers reaction to the newly established OPA ceiling price," he said.

OPA's new ceilings reduced meat prices from their recent levels, but averaged 3¾ cents a pound higher than the ceilings on June 30, when controls lapsed.

The 3¾ cent increase means housewives will pay about $600,000,000 more for meat a year than under June 30 prices.

Chicago, New York Hit.

Elsewhere in most of the nation the supply picture was as dark as in Mansfield with retailers from coast to coast reporting that they were running out of meat.

Retail shops were closing for lack of business, and packing houses were laying off workers.

A Chicago retailers' spokesman estimated 1,100 of the city's 2,000 retail markets would be closed by the end of the week. In New York City, 90 per cent of the dealers had no meat of any kind.

Livestock receipts over the nation now are reported running from eight to 50 per cent of normal.

Almost 5,000 packinghouse workers have been laid off at Omaha alone.

These were typical reports in a nation-wide survey—

Los Angeles: city faces most critical meat shortage in history; Cincinnati: most meat counters displaying only cold cuts and poultry; Oklahoma City: supplies estimated only five per cent of normal; New Orleans: butcher shops report stocks from "zero," to "fair"; Boston: only three cars of beef reported arriving today compared with 70 last week.

unit in Mansfield but, at present, is waiting on the bureau and the Air Forces in Washington to decide if we can have the hangars," Saxton wrote.

"There is also some talk of putting a reserve unit in Mansfield," Saxton's letter continued, "to help bear the expense of maintaining the air field.. This would enable the city to get some remuneration for any money it puts into the field," he stated.

Saxton wrote: "In addition to the concrete flooring, it would be necessary, eventually, to construct a parking mat and a connecting strip to the runway.

"I will try to locate some metal parking mat," Saxton stated.

One of the main problems, Vaughn said he will attempt to clarify in a meeting with guard officials is how training of a fighter squadron at the port would affect commercial air traffic.

RALLY BRINGS REVERSAL IN STOCK SLUMP

Wall Street Makes Comeback to Trim Off Portion of Previous Losses.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market turned on the rallying steam today after an early drop in which many leaders touched new lows for the past year or longer.

Dealings, fairly active in the first half hour of selling, speeded up as bidding appeared and, for an interval, the ticker tape was behind actual floor transactions.

The comeback was attributed by brokers largely to quick-turn buying and short covering on the belief the market had been drastically oversold and was due for an about-shift.

On the upside as much as 2 or more points were Republic Steel, Firestone Rubber (following a lifted dividend), U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott, American Smelting, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania Railroad, Chesapeake & Ohio and Texas Co.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK — Mrs. Frances Perkins, who was Franklin D. Roosevelt's secretary of labor for 12 years, was one of the few truthful persons in his administration. Therefore the lady deserves the benefit of a doubt in discussion of that phase of her memoirs which deals with Roosevelt's decision to run for governor of New York in 1928. But, granting that Mrs. Perkins writes the truth as she knows it, the historical record must allege that she was deceived or incompletely informed and that the facts of the matter are seriously at odds with her report.

For the benefit of the objective historian who consults the reminiscenes of Roosevelt's devotees, satellites and sycophants fifty years hence, this demurrer should be clipped to the tearsheets of Mrs. Perkins' story.

Mrs. Perkins writes that in 1928, Governor Al Smith, the Democratic nominee for president, decided that he needed Roosevelt as his candidate for governor of New York to help him, Smith carry the state. Mrs. Perkins writes that Smith took the phone from Mrs. Roosevelt during the Democratic state convention at Syracuse and pleaded with Roosevelt to accept the nomination. Roosevelt, at Warm Springs, Georgia, refused, but the next night Smith made a personal plea "over and above politics." Mrs. Perkins says Roosevelt weakened and asked to speak to Mrs. Roosevelt. When she took the phone, he gave in.

"He ran primarily to support Smith," Mrs. Perkins wrote. In the closing days of the 1944 campaign, Roosevelt, reversing his earlier estimate of Tom Dewey's strength as a campaigner, took to the road and closed out his own campaign in Boston. His speech there was an appeal to the Irishness and Catholicism of the Boston Democrats, who held Smith in revered memory. In that speech he took advantage of the fact that Al Smith had died a few weeks before, to claim Smith's friendship, which had been withdrawn several years before, as Roosevelt well knew, and said that he ran for the governorship of New York in 1928 "at Smith's request."

This unquestionably was true. It is also true, however, and neither Roosevelt nor Mrs. Perkins has even alluded to the fact, that Roosevelt's decision was not made as a favor to Smith but was based on a financial consideration.

John J. Raskob, who describes himself in Who's Who as a capitalist and an official of General Motors and the Empire State Building, had accompanied Smith to the state convention at Smith's request. I undertake to say this because I called on Smith to ask him about the incidents during the summer of 1944 and he told the story without hesitation.

I say also he had no personal respect for Roosevelt at that time. Raskob was not interested in politics as such, but believed that prohibition was a source of dangerous corruption in the politics and morals of the country and was a crusader for repeal. Smith did telephone Roosevelt twice from Syracuse to Warm Springs and Roosevelt turned him down. Al then asked Raskob to try and he did.

Roosevelt said he wanted to get his health back and moreover, was under financial obligations in his Warm Springs enterprise. Roosevelt had bought this little run-down vacation resort from George Foster Peabody, a rich banker and insurance man, who was also a philanthropist, and had given Peabody notes.

Roosevelt then sold the property to a foundation, himself accepting notes. If he thought Peabody would cancel his notes on the ground that Roosevelt, too, appeared to be a philanthropist, he was mistaken. By telephone Raskob remarked to Roosevelt that Smith seemed to have the notion that he, Roosevelt, felt committed to raise money for Warm Springs.

Raskob asked him if money was all that stood between his present attitude and a decision to accept the nomination. Roosevelt said he would have to raise $250,000 for Warm Springs. Raskob said that, in that case, he would guarantee the $250,000 and underwrite the difference between the amount of money that could be raised in a public appeal for contributions and $250,000. That same night, Raskob wrote a letter to Roosevelt and enclosed his check for $250,000.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

In the intricate argument about th machinery and procedure of peacemaking there has been no express stipulation, so far as I know, on what is the most important point of all. It would appear that we have not clearly reserved the right to review the Italian treaty as a whole, and to decide whether as a whole, we can support it as a settlement.

To be sure this right remains in that the treaty cannot come into force until it has been ratified as a whole document by the senate. But the working assumption in Paris seems to be that the treaty is to be agreed to item by item, that each of the 78 articles of the draft is, so to speak, a separate agreement and final for Mr. Byrnes and the American delegation.

If they have reserved the right to review the whole result, to look at the whole picture which the 78 bits and pieces of the mosaic make. M. Molotov does not act as if he knew it. He does not seem to realize that the points on which the Big Four have already agreed are still tentative until the whole treaty is reviewed.

Enough has transpired since the four foreign ministers called the peace conference to raise the gravest doubt about this treaty. It proposes the partition of the province of Venezia Giulia and the internationalization of the Trieste. Both the Italian government and the Yugoslav, the two nations directly involved, have rejected the compromise and denounced it violently. Yet Italy is to be disarmed and her frontier fortifications dismantled while Yugoslavia is to remain armed.

Now obviously this is no settlement whatsoever as between Italy and Yugoslavia. The only condition under which it could become a settlement is that Britain, America and Russia could be counted upon to be firmly united in imposing it on both Italy and Yugoslavia. Since Italy is to be made impotent, it is against Yugoslavia, which remains armed, that the settlement would have to be guaranteed.

Only the Soviet Union can restrain Yugoslavia. For under this strange treaty the British and Americans are to evacuate Italy within 90 days. After that there is nothing to restrain Yugoslavia except such action as the Security Council of the United Nations may take, and the action of the Security Council depends, of course, on the active consent of the Soviet Union. So the whole precarious structure of the settlement rests on a hypothetical guaranty that Russia will police Tito. But since Russia has said she agrees with Tito's objections to the compromise, there is no guaranty that Russia will police Tito or consent to have the Security Council police him.

It is a question, therefore, whether it would not be better to postpone the settlement of the Italian frontiers as we have postponed the settlement of the Italian colonial empire. Postponement would mean that we continued to have the right to stand guard with the British on the disputed frontier; to agree to this treaty means that we must evacuate our forces.

But unless the compromise which we have agreed to is accepted with some sincerity by Tito and guaranteed expressly by the Soviet Union, there is no point in evacuating the British and American forces. For now at least they enforce a truce. If they had to come back, which would be a perpetual probability, they would be intervening in a war.

SOCIAL AGENCY BUILDING PLAN WILL BE AIRED

Citizens' Council to Explain Recommendation to Five Groups Next Week.

Five Mansfield social agencies will confer next week with the Citizens' Council on Social Survey regarding building plans expected to run into an expansion calling for expenditure of $600,000, to $800,000.

Don Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Citizens' Council, today set up the following schedule of meetings between representatives of the agencies and H. B. Soulen and A. C. Rhoades, acting for the council:

YMCA—noon, Monday, Sept. 16, at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Girl Scouts and YWCA—7:30 p. m. Monday, Sept. 16, at the Chamber of Commerce assembly room.

Friendly House and Salvation Army—7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms.

Groups from the boards of directors of these agencies will hear details of a plan to carry forward their building programs. The plan, adopted by the Citizens' Council, Aug. 14, calls for the agencies to submit their building and program plans and estimates of how much they can raise in their own drives. To the amount each agency raises a very substantial sum will be added proportionately. Dates for the drives will be fixed by the council.

The entire program is an outgrowth of a survey of Mansfield social agencies made some time ago at the expense of the Manufacturers' club of the Chamber of Commerce.

Following recommendations of the survey, a committee consisting of C. S. Lake, chairman, Floyd Dent, Mrs. E. R. Kochheiser, Judge H. H. Schettler and M. P. Wolcott will make recommendations on the establishment of a permanant council of social agencies.

James H. Hoffman and J. C. O'Donnell are formulating regulations governing the present council.

Reports 'Everything Fine' With Split School Plan

The half-day sessions for fifth and sixth graders at Western avenue school started off without a hitch yesterday.

"Everything went just fine and I believe everyone is well satisfied," Jesse M. Clark, principal, said.

The four-hour day schedule, which was strongly protested by parents last week, went into effect on order of the board of education because of limited room space in the building.

"I believe we'll get by with the schedule all right this year," Clark added.

"The parents, for the most part, are settled with the idea, and the greater majority of them have pledged heir support in helping the children with the proper atmosphere for afternoon or morning studying."

Under the plan, fifth and sixth grade pupils attended classes four consecutive hours a day, instead of the interrupted five and one-half hours. Each grade is broken down into two classes, which alternate in morning and afternoon recitation.

Erect Tents to House Biggest Exhibit in Years.

The Wooster fair, which annually attracts scores of Richland countians, opened today with one of the biggest programs in its history scheduled.

Entries are unusually heavy in the flower, baby beef, swine, dairy cattle junior fair, home economics, school, grange, horse and speed department, Fair Secretary Walter J. Buss said.

Entries in the harness races were particularly heavy according to Earl Strock, superintendent. Over 100 trotters and pacers were on the ground, ready for racing today, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 1:30 p. m.

Besides the barn dance jamboree which closes the five-day fair at 8 p. m. Saturday, other special events include: a drill by the Company G, Ohio National Guard at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday; a horse parade at 8 p. m. Thursday and a radio show at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

COUNTY'S VETS URGED TO UNITE

Spokesmen For 5 Groups Hear Unity Proposal at Meet.

A proposal favoring the organization of a county veterans' council, for the purpose of presenting a united front of veterans and veterans' organizations on important questions of community interest, will be placed before the various veterans' organizations as the result of a meeting of their representatives last night at the city building.

A recent survey made throughout Ohio by M. A. Fulkerson, temporary chairman of the meeting, revealed that a number of veterans and veterans' organizations have been successful in carrying out projects because of the presentation of a united program through a council.

"Anything that helps the community helps the veteran" Fulkerson said. "The veterans' council, while not preventing action by single organizations, will enable the veterans to present a stronger argument on questions which they mutually agree to be of paramount importance," Fulkerson said.

A meeting is scheduled for Oct. 3 when representatives of the veterans' organizations will report back as to whether or not a council is favored by their organization, and as to the manner in which representation on the council should be apportioned if the council is favored.

Attending last night's meeting were William R. Allen of the Veterans' Information center who will serve as an adviser; Walter Rusk and Carl Kahl of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Charles Prosser of the Disabled American Veterans; Ralph Hughes of McVey post, American Legion; Fulkerson, representing the American Veterans' committee, and F. G. Tonnemacher, Elden Becker, and Robert E. Rogers, all of the Amvets.

WANT TO SELL

New York Central Desires to Dispose of Shops.

BUCYRUS — The New York Central railroad shops in Bucyrus, a target of much controversy in Bucyrus during the last 10 years while the city sought to compel the railroad, by terms of a 55-year-old contract, to continue to operate here, may change hands again.

The shops, which went into the unquestioned possession of the railroad with a clear title after payment of a cash settlement to the city more than two years ago, have been in use by the army's transportation corps since.

Left vacant when the transportation corps moved out early this year, a recent communication from the railroad company to the Junior Chamber of Commerce advised that the company would dispose of the shops "to some industry which will provide a payroll for Bucyrus."

The Jaycees were asked to provide descriptive printed matter concerning the town and its advantages to be published with the new prospectus of the shop layout.

CONFUSED 'OFFICER'—

An unidentified man—at least slightly "tipsy" — stumbled into the intersection of Fourth and Elm streets last night and proceeded to "direct" traffic. Motorists chuckled but ignored his signals as he waved his arms in cop-mocking fashion. Fortunately—or perhaps it was unfortunate — he decided to "go west" before police arrived. An East Fourth street resident had sounded the alarm, fearing that the weaving, would-be cop "would become a casualty." When police got there witnesses said that the under-the-influence traffic "director," had gone west on Fourth street. Officers, however, were unable to track him down, they said.

EXPERT SETS FULL COST AT $153,380,000

Engineer For Pennsylvania Turnpike Says Project Would Pay For Self.

MEDINA—(INS)—A self-supporting, trans-Ohio superhighway, connecting with the famed Pennsylvania turnpike, can be built for $152,380,000, Maj. H. H. Allen, consulting engineer for the Pennsylvania turnpike, reported today after a survey.

State Rep. Ralph Winter (R., Lodi), who heads the group promoting the Ohio turnpike, received Major Allen's report, which said the 239-mile, four-lane highway could be built at an average cost of $638,000 a mile.

Includes All Costs.

The cost included everything, Allen said, even 2¼ per cent interest on the bonds which would be issued to finance the undertaking.

An average of 5,420 vehicles daily would be needed to put the limited access highway on a self-sustaining, self-liquidating basis, Allen reported, if the income from the gasoline tax on gas used by vehicles on the highway is included. If the gas tax income is not included, an average of 6,750 cars will be needed.

However, Allen's firm, the J. E. Greiner company, estimated that the average daily traffic would nearly double the latter figure.

"We estimate the average daily traffic from the period 1950 to 1980, assuming a 30-year term bond period, to be 12,000 vehicles daily," Allen reported.

(Winter previously had stated that he would introduce legislation in the regular session of the legislature to enable the bonds to be issued without cost to the state. When the bonds are paid out the toll would be removed from the road and it would become a part of the state highway system.)

Allen divided the cost into three parts:

Section One, from the Pennsylvarian turnpike (which would be extended from its present terminus to a point near Youngstown) to a point south of Cleveland, would be 55 miles long and cost $38,790,000, an average of $704,000 a mile. It would carry an estimated 17,000 vehicles a day.

Section Two, 112 miles long, would extend to a point south of Toledo, also would be self-liquidating, Allen reported.

Section Three, 72 miles long, would extend to the Indiana state line, and "is on the borderline as far as its self-liquidating features are concerned."

CITY'S MEAT CRISIS GROWS WORSE HOURLY

Wappner's reported nothing much left at 9:10 a. m. and going to close soon.

In line with this a packinghouse salesman reported very little coming into packing houses.

"Our supply for the next few days depends on the farmers reaction to the newly established OPA ceiling price," he said.

OPA's new ceilings reduced meat prices from their recent levels, but averaged 3¾ cents a pound higher than the ceilings on June 30, when controls lapsed.

The 3¾ cent increase means housewives will pay about $600,000,000 more for meat a year than under June 30 prices.

Chicago, New York Hit.

Elsewhere in most of the nation the supply picture was as dark as in Mansfield with retailers from coast to coast reporting that they were running out of meat.

Retail shops were closing for lack of business, and packing houses were laying off workers.

A Chicago retailers' spokesman estimated 1,100 of the city's 2,000 retail markets would be closed by the end of the week. In New York City, 90 per cent of the dealers had no meat of any kind.

Livestock receipts over the nation now are reported running from eight to 50 per cent of normal.

Almost 5,000 packinghouse workers have been laid off at Omaha alone.

These were typical reports in a nation-wide survey—

Los Angeles: city faces most critical meat shortage in history; Cincinnati: most meat counters displaying only cold cuts and poultry; Oklahoma City: supplies estimated only five per cent of normal; New Orleans: butcher shops report stocks from "zero." to "fair"; Boston: only three cars of beef reported arriving today compared with 70 last week.

Here for a three-day district managers' meeting, officials of the Tappan Stove company talk over company business at the first day's meeting yesterday. From left to right, Alan P. unit in Mansfield but, at present, is waiting on the bureau and the Air Forces in Washington to decide if we can have the hangars," Saxton wrote.

"There is also some talk of putting a reserve unit in Mansfield," Saxton's letter continued. "to help bear the expense of maintaining the air field. This would enable the city to get some remuneration for any money it puts into the field," he stated.

Saxton wrote: "In addition to the concrete flooring, it would be necessary, eventually, to construct a parking mat and a connecting strip to the runway.

"I will try to locate some metal parking mat," Saxton stated.

One of the main problems, Vaughn said he will attempt to clarify in a meeting with guard officials is how training of a fighter squadron at the port would affect commercial air traffic.

RALLY BRINGS REVERSAL IN STOCK SLUMP

Wall Street Makes Comeback to Trim Off Portion of Previous Losses.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market turned on the rallying steam today after an early drop in which many leaders touched new lows for the past year or longer.

Dealings, fairly active in the first half hour of selling, speeded up as bidding appeared and, for an interval, the ticker tape was behind actual floor transactions.

The comeback was attributed by brokers largely to quick-turn buying and short covering on the belief the market had been drastically oversold and was due for an about-shift.

On the upside as much as 2 or more points were Republic Steel, Firestone Rubber (following a lifted dividend), U. S Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott, American Smelting, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania Railroad, Chesapeake & Ohio and Texas Co.

Laggards included American Telephone, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Standard Oil (NJ), Du Pont and Allied Chemical.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1946

Forecasts are that we are to have "a long, hard winter"—including the weather.

Last week's stock market break seems to be among the things that call for the remark: "I expected this, but not so soon."

One observer has an idea that a congressman wouldn't have so much trouble "mending his fence" if he hadn't worn it out by sitting on it.

Meat 'Famine' Arrives, As Foreseen

ONE "coming event" that surely "cast its shadow before" is the present drastic meat shortage, which even a casual observer could readily have foreseen several weeks ago when livestock was being rushed to markets during the short interval of uncontrolled prices.

Now that prices are restored to OPA control, even at considerable increases, the supply of meat reaching legitimate retail outlets is entirely inadequate—with no indication of relief.

Much of the livestock sent to market in recent weeks was underfed and not ready for butchering, including many calves that should have been held for maturing, but the price lure—coupled with high feed costs—resulted in a brief deluge, the effects of which will probably extend through the entire winter.

This is another example of the "managed economy" with which the country has been burdened for more than a dozen years, one "emergency" moving into another with such speed as to permit no return to sound principles of production and distribution of essential commodities.

Temporary abandonment of meat price controls, then their re-application, is among the worst of Washington muddling, and now there's talk of resuming the rationing of meat—but rationing presupposes a sufficient supply to meet reasonable requirements—and where's the supply to come from?

Make Sure You are Registered

REMINDER that the important 1946 elections are coming along fast is found in announcement by the board of elections that this is the time for registration by all prospective voters who are not already properly registered in the precinct in which they will be entitled to vote.

While Monday, Oct. 7 is the final registration day, this is an obligation that may well be met at the earliest possible opportunity, so that it is out of the way.

An example of organized effort in making sure that all of its supporters vote is provided by the CIO Political Action Committee, which carries through a consistent campaign for the largest possible registration of eligible voters.

Re-registration is required of all persons who have not voted for two years, also first voters and newcomers to the city and township. Voters who have changed their place of residence must secure a transfer.

Attention of returned veterans is especially directed to the importance of making sure that they are properly registered.

New Philadelphia Mayor Has An Idea

ANNOUNCEMENT comes from New Philadelphia that the mayor of that city has adopted the plan of assessing a monthly fine of $10 against operators of punchboards and other gambling devices, with proceeds going into the city treasury.

While this idea is not entirely new, having long ago been practiced for a time in Mansfield in the regulation of houses of prostitution, it seems to be a more sensible handling of the commercialized gambling situation than allowing "protection" money to flow into the hands of officials, or police department personnel in the form of bribes, as has frequently been revealed as the procedure in some cities.

Where commercialized gambling is tolerated in a city there is never freedom from suspicion that someone in authority is profiting thereby, and if there can be any betterment of a bad situation it would appear to be in some such action as has been taken by the New Philadelphia mayor, by which the revenue helps meet municipal operating costs instead of enriching a few grafters.

Those Trouble-Making Dardanelles

THE DARDANELLES dispute between Russia and Turkey is nothing new. The question of ownership of the straits separating Europe from Asia is one of the oldest disputes in diplomacy. Even before Constantinople was founded, over 1600 years ago, its prize location was fought for by the nations.

The Black Sea, Russia's only year-round ice-free ocean, has but one outlet. This is the Bosporus or strait leading to the Sea of Marmora, which in its turn is connected with the outer Mediterranean by the Straits of the Dardanelles. Desire to control the straits and Constantinople was the root of the so-called Eastern Question, or problem of how to break up Turkey, which has been a European diplomatic topic ever since Turkey began to weaken in the 17th century.

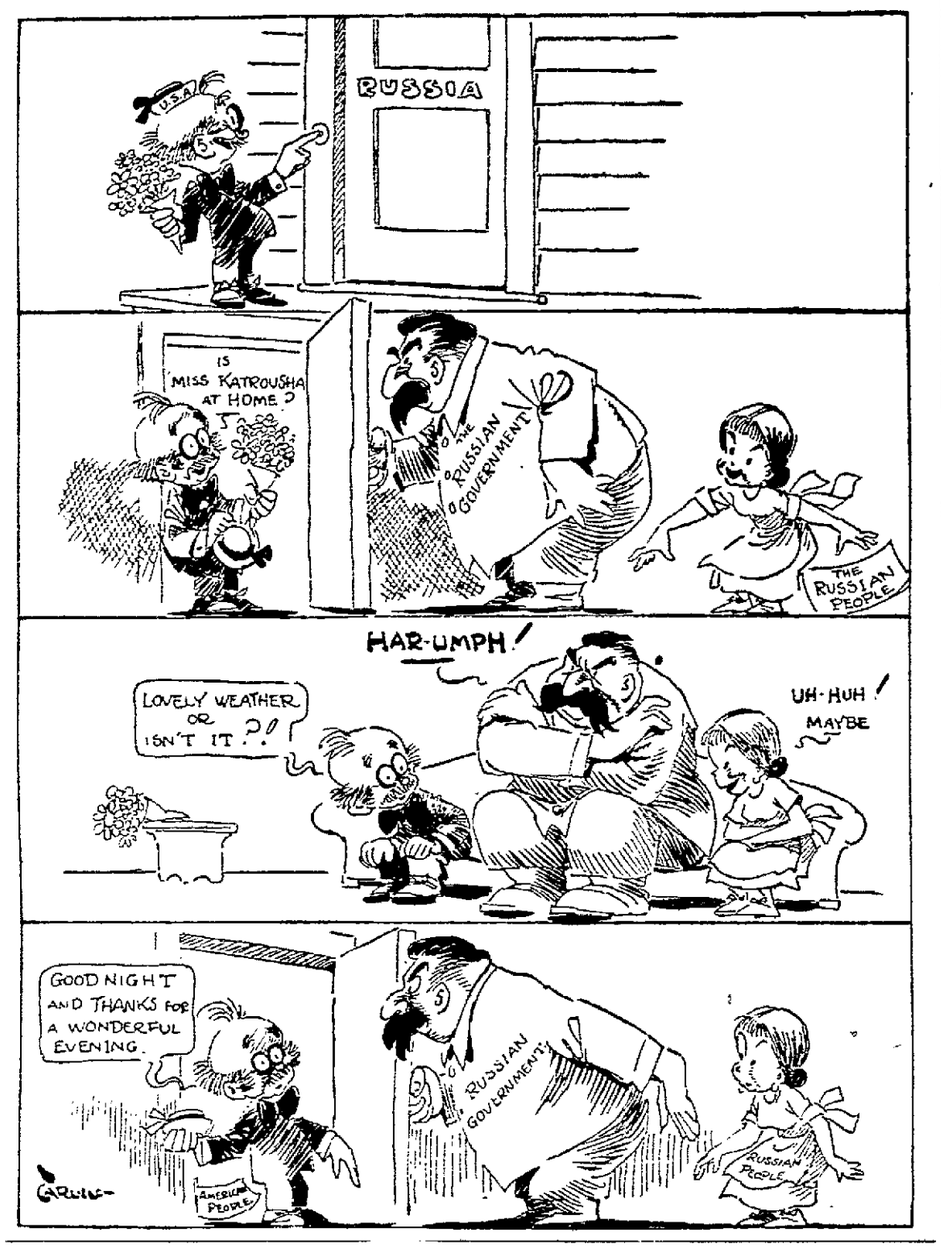
In World War I an ice-bound ocean in the North and the German army in the West cut off Russia from outside supplies. Hence the ill-fated British attempt to open the straits by force, which ended in the disaster of Gallipoli.

Remembering all this, the Russians would like to control their only southern outlet. However Turkey, on the south side of the straits, has rights too. So have the other Black Sea states, Romania and Bulgaria, not to speak of the rest of the world, which trades with all the Black Sea states. Here is where the United States comes in, with need for free access to those countries.

According to one psychologist, "There are no important differences between men and women"—thus leaving the scope of "important" open to argument.

Of all sad words in sound or ink, the saddest are these: "I didn't think."

WE SHOULD GET BETTER ACQUAINTED WITH THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE



Truman Cools Toward Newsmen, Sees Danger In 'Snap Answers'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Newsmen probably won't write about it, but President Truman's Bermuda trip climaxed a significant change in his relations with the press. The old days of inumate, chummy talks have now vanished. Truman was cool, aloof, even chilly.

And for good reason. Some of his supposedly most trusted news friends let him down.

"Off-the-record talks which the president thought were going only to half a dozen people leaked out and became the property of millions.

Most disillusioning of these was a reunion of the "Hard Rock club," a group of a dozen newsmen who covered Truman's vice-presidential campaign when he was ignored by the rest of the country.

Several weeks ago the president invited the boys to an evening on the yacht Williamsburg. They played poker, drank bourbon and generally let their hair down—especially the president. He was indiscreet enough to tell all about the Russian situation and what he thought of Chester Bowles—then OPA administrator. His remarks were not complimentary. Truman minced no words about either Bowles or the Russians and it was hard to say which he liked least. Though he avored OPA, he thought the fight to win its approval from congress would not have been so hard if Bowles had not issued so much propaganda and talked so much.

Shortly afterward, Time magazine published a brief account of his very confidential evening. Blame for the leak fell upon Edward Lockett, Time staffer who is a member of the Hard Rock club.

Truman was so indignant that for a long time he would not speak to Lockett. Other club members virtually ostracized him.

Later, the Chicago Sun's Tom Reynolds, no member of the club, wrote another account of the president's off-the-record remarks on that memorable evening. Naturally, Truman's views got back to the Russians. This made him even more vexed- and worried.

So from now on the chief executive has decided not to be the naive and trusting gentleman he once was with his supposed close friends of the press. During the Bermuda trip, for instance, he gave press secretary Charlie Ross instructions that newsmen were to ask no questions which did not pertain directly to the trip.

And when one man violated this rule to ask why Rhode Island's Senator Theodore Green was not invited aboard the Williamsburg, the president nearly snapped his head off.

Note—From a foreign relations viewpoint, Truman's tightening up on the press is a good thing. From one end of a veranda at Reel's Foot Lake, Tenn., last year he gave wide-eyed newsmen a sensational statement on the atomic bomb which never should have been released except after the most careful consideration. At his early press conferences no question was too direct or too ticklish for the president to answer. Now Mr. Truman has realized that his words echo round the world; that no president of the United States can give snap answers.

Jackson Back To Normalcy.

Chief Justice Fred Vinson had an important talk with Justice Bob Jackson during the latter's trip here from Nurenburg. Jackson seemed to have regained his perspective and was more rational than at the time he unloosed his blast at Justice Hugo Black. He gave every indication that he would cooperate at the coming Supreme Court session.

Jackson's friends attribute his erratic statements to the depressing atmosphere of the Nurenburg trials. Looking day after day at the Nazi prisoners who were responsible for killing 6,000,000 people they explain, would get any man down.

Mrs. Truman's Onions.

Mrs. Truman isn't advertising it, but as her contribution to the good-neighbor policy she has been studying Spanish.

Her class consists of various cabinet wives and ladies of the Supreme Court, including Mrs. Stanley Reed. The ladies study under live-wire tutor Ramon Ramos of Cuba.

Senor Ramos is one who believes in making his classroom work interesting. No dusty blackboards and dull books for him. He has his lady students do something interesting and talk about it in Spanish as they do it.

One of the things he concocted for them to do was cook a meal in the White House and use Spanish in discussing food, pots and pans, dishrags and tabasco sauce. When the would-be Spanish speakers arrived at the White House, Mrs. Truman shooed the servants out of the presidential kitchen and the ladies took over.

They concocted quite a luncheon, featuring, as is only natural when one is studying Spanish—Spanish onions. To those who whiffed the odor in the rest of the White House it seemed that onions was about all the ladies cooked.

At the next lesson teacher Ramos was curious to know the after-effects of his linguistic luncheon. He had never been in the White House before.

"And what did the president think of our luncheon?" he asked Mrs. Truman.

"He didn't think anything about it at all," the First Lady replied, quite truthfully.

"But Margaret did," she added. "Margaret came into the White House and said the whole place stank."

Capital Chaff.

President Truman was seriously seasick twice during the Bermuda vacation. He had the miseries two days coming and two going . . . Donald McGregor, of Houston, Texas, will step up to replace able Jim McGranery as assistant to the attorney general when the later becomes a federal judge in Philadelphia . . . Capable career-man Gus Vanech of the justice department will win reward by being made an assistant attorney general soon.

State department's Loy Henderson fumed when Bartley Crum suggested that he should resign over the Palestine mess. Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson twitted Henderson at a subsequent staff conference: "Are you sure, Loy, that you're not really mad because he referred to you as a middle-level official?" . . . 126 GI's will be ousted from the Hollywood canteen if the Los Angeles zoning commission has its way. They say the canteen is a rooming-house. So what! . . . Chief Justice Vinson has spent the summer reading last term's Supreme Court opinions. Some of them are tough reading . . . On its round-the-world trip, Bob Hannegan's party found American commanders in various moods and conditions of exhaustion. Gen. George Marshall in China was discouraged and blue. Gen. Lucius Clay in Germany was worn out. Gen. Joseph McNarney was tired. Even General MacArthur showed the effects of age and his grueling job. But in Austria, Gen. Mark Clark was fresh, energetic and unbowed by his constant battle with the Russians.

Place Where 'Don't' Is Firmly Advised.

DETROIT, Mich.—This particular piece of quite perishable prose is written in answer to the plea of countless distraught and harried Detroit citizens.

It consists of a few simple rules of procedure for their sisters, brothers, uncles, cousins, friends, acquaintances and such-like kinfolk across the country—not to mention many total strangers.

These are the rules:

Don't write people you know in Detroit asking them to get you a new car.

Don't wire them asking the same.

Don't call them to do ditto.

In fact, DON'T!

Never have I seen a city full of so many frantic characters all trying to explain the same thing to frantic characters elsewhere.

For despite the fact that endless publicity has pointed out that it is approximately no easier to get a new car in Detroit than it is in, say Salt Lake City, still people keep trying.

Every local taxpayer you meet will tell you at least a dozen stories of how the bite has been put on him for a '46 flivver. Some such outlanders are so naively confident that, right along with their wire asking for such-and-such a model auto, they announce they will arrive on the plane within 48 hours to collect their car!

Others arrive by the score in their jaded, jangling jallopies, happily certain (as was this correspondent) that they will be able to drive away in a vehicle of this season's vintage.

Sad indeed is their awakening, and tragic is the cast of their countenance when they learn (as did this correspondent) that they're going to go home like the hill-billy girl at the barn dance—in the same car what brung 'em.

"Some cases are really tragic," said Paul T. Graves, executive vice president of the Detroit Auto Dealers association which serves as a sort of clearing house for all incoming auto requests. "We get lots of letters from veterans who have just gotten out of the service. They write us that they're coming through Detroit in order to "pick up a new car on the way home.' If we have their return address, we shoot them a fast letter, warning them it's next to impossible. 'But sometimes they're already on the way—and it's too late."

Graves, whose office handles hundreds of letters daily, added that many men still in service write from overseas that they're getting their order "in early" so that they'll be able to pick up their car when they get home in a month or so.

When you realize that most Detroit dealers still are nearly ten months behind in filling orders locally, the futility of the GI's hope becomes completely clear.

"We answer all the letters and explain as best we can," Graves said wearily. "After all, in normal times we'd welcome this sort of thing, so we always try to be courteous with even the most impossible requests. We want to keep their goodwill even though we can't get them cars now."

But people around town who aren't in the automobile business are beginning to get short-tempered on the subject. They'll show you letters from all over the world . . . from people they haven't heard from in years . . . demanding letters . . . insulting letters . . . pleading letters.

"I'm not on speaking or writing terms with half my family," one Detroit business man said. "I can't convince them that it's impossible for me to get them new cars. And those who still do write never fail to ask me how I like my new car. My new car! Hah! It will be months yet before I get one!"

And, believe it or not, I found scores of automobile factory officials driving old cars for exactly the same reason. Although they led the list of orders—being on the spot—and could get new ones easily, they simply don't dare.

Dave Boone Says:

THE SILLY season must have been extended. Here's Congressman Sabath demanding an investigation into the recent stock market decline and charging that it was all a plot.

"I can see no reason for the break," says Sabath. "Production is at an all-time high, employment at its highest peacetime level. There must, therefore, be a political motive behind it." I'd like to know where Sabath is sitting, so I could join him. It must be behind something that completely shuts out the view of the American scene at the moment.

Evidently he hasn't caught even a glimpse of the dock strike, the truck strike, the peace conference, the UN meetings, the atomic bomb, Jimmy Petrillo, the bottlenecks in the auto industry, the control of food and building supplies by gangsters, or the general snafu.

* * *

The congressman says he suspects that people who bought stocks at low levels are selling them at high prices so they can buy again at lower levels. Now just imagine anybody doing an awful thing like that.

Greece Becomes Center of Balkan Crisis.

A HIGHLY explosive situation exists in the Balkans—whelping ground of wars—as the result of the exceedingly strained relations between Greece and Yugoslavia, coupled with continued Greek disorders attributed by the Athens government to Communists and other extreme leftists.

The past few days have seen an extraordinary and highly significent string of developments. First came Yugoslavia's open hint at the Paris peace conference that it believed Greek Macedonia—one of the most cherished possessions of Greece—should be in the Yugoslav federation. This drew from Greek Acting Premier Stylianos Gonatas in Athens the declaration that it supported "our suspicions that the trouble and disorder in Greece are not exclusively an internal matter."

Gonatas didn't pin down any closer what was clearly a strong suggestion that an outside nation was inspiring the leftists troubles within Greece.

However, further illumination came a bit later when Communist Demetrius Partsalides, secretary-general of the EAM (National Liberation front, which is a coalition of left wingers) was asked bluntly in a press conference if the EAM would lead a revolution against the government. He didn't answer either "yes" or "no" but he did say that if the nation were under attack from a foreign power, "every pressure of the Greek people would be to overthrow the government."

Earlier EAM had issued a statement saying it wouldn't recognize the results of the recent plebiscite which voted overwhelmingly for a return of King George to his throne. Partsalides said "the king must not come back."

Meantime the forcing down of a Greek military airplane in Yugoslavia by anti-aircraft fire was creating added tension, and this wasn't lessened by the fact that the Yugoslav ambassador to Athens recently was withdrawn. Also in the offing was Bulgaria's demand for Western Thrace from Greece—a claim which more than incidentally has the support of Russia and the Slav group.

When you add to these grave complications the fact that England is standing squarely behind Greece as guardian, you really have something.

Greece, of course, is Britain's only foothold on the Balkan peninsula and consequently is a priceless base in view of the clash of interests in the Balkans and Middle East between the Soviet Union and England.

George II, king of the Hellenes, is girding his loins in England for the return to his homeland. This is the second time the 56-year-old monarch has been recalled by plebicite. He first mounted the throne in 1922 on the abdication of his father, King Contantine. He was deposed in 1924 and a republic was established. Then in 1935 his crown was restored and he managed to hang onto it until the Germans occupied his country and he fled.

George faces a tremendous crisis, involving not only his own country but the badly muddled relations between the Russian bloc and the Western Democracies.

It is a position which calls for a strong man and it is given to wonder how well he will measure up to it. He was on his throne less than a year after his last recall when his premier, General (Little John) Meaxas, established a dictatorship which Little John ruled with an iron hand until he died suddenly just as the Nazi storm was breaking about Greece.

The way things now look, George may well encounter a rebellion right at the outset of his new reign. The Greek Communists are pursuing the well-tried Red policy of "divide and rule" — causing strife and then seizing power. Moreover the present instance is complicated by the danger of strife between Greece and one of its neighbors— maybe more than one. His majesty has his work cut out for him.

A Frank Criticism of "Smutty" Stuff.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I DO NOT like smut. There is no high moral code about this remark. The simple fact is—I don't care for smut because it bores me.

It doesn't matter in what form it comes—bound as a best seller, printed on a French postcard, or snickered over a bridge table—my reaction is the same.

I resent smut because it insults my intelligence.

Despite our drooling appreciation of it, sex is neither a very complicated or sophisticated subject. A toad knows as much about it as a man, and nine-tenths of our sex agitation is strictly on the toad level. Having crawled a few inches above the toad level, I am not amused by the reprodurtive processes of mud puddles.

Personally I doubt if our present epidemic of obscene literature will damage anyone mentally for I am sure that no one with even rudimentary intelligence would read the stuff.

The plots are all nauseatingly similar. Chapter One opens with our heroine leaping from bed to bed and Chapter Sixty closes with her still leaping. Maybe I lack the spark of something but the only reaction I get from such calisthenics is lumbago.

There is one effect of the situation, however, which leaves me with a distinctly bad taste in my mouth, namely, the fact that women are undoubtedly the hottest fans for this sort of garbage.

By the nature of my various jobs, I spent most of my life working with men. But I have heard more dirty stories in one hour from women—swank dames too—than I have ever heard in five years from men. That is the truth. Women are the ones who besiege the lending libraries for the latest stinko and spend hours devouring it and phoning Mabel the spicy details.

I don't know whether the girls are frustrated or studious, but reading dirty books is no way to remedy either condition.

There is another angle which does really rouse my ire. I refer to the effect of obscene literature on the younger generation. I do not mean that it shocks them or tells them anything they do not already know. It is very difficult to shock or enlighten any young modern. But it does give them an entirely false idea of the fundamental values of life. It deludes them into thinking that sex, per se, will provide a lasting and exciting bond between the sexes. Than which there could be no greater fallacy.

Sex is a vitally important function in the human program. When it is accompanied by love, esteem, respect or devoted companionship it can lift a man to sublime heights of devotion and sacrifice. But when it is on a purely animal plane it does nothing of the sort and soon becomes one of the most tiresome and unreliable of human functions.

That is why I intensely resent the dirty books which are now so freely circulating or being made into movies. I can stand my personal boredom when filth is introduced because I am quite able to rise from my chair and go out of the room.

But I cannot go out of the room when a whole generation of plastic, highly emotional youngsters is being sold filthy and vicious lies by their dirty minded elders.

We talk a lot about the progress and culture of our American blood. But to judge by the best sellers, the goats have nothing on us.

P. S. And I'm not for censors either. I am merely for decent, self respecting adults who can keep their thoughts above the waist line.

Farmer's Diary: "Toll Bridges and Roads."

DRIVING the other day through the fertile fruit belt near Lake Erie, we were halted on the long Bay bridge of Sandusky—part of a long line of traffic.

"Get two quarters ready," I had told my wife. "This toll bridge takes a quarter or fifty cents—I forget which."

But all traffic had halted. People began to get out and walk nearer to get a look at what was happening.

"What's up?" we asked each other. Nobody near us seemed to know. A knot of people had gathered near the middle of the bridge. We could see policemen and road patrolmen on motorcycles—a fat man with a camera hustled past.

Then all at once, cars were moving again. I had my quarter ready—a policeman waved it back and yelled, "Keep it. The bridge is free."

"How come?"

"Keep your money. The bridge is paid for."

Next day we saw by the newspaper that the governor had been there, and there had been a little ceremony. The quarters had added up, through all the years, to enough money to buy the bridge, which automatically became state property, and free.

Many other large bridges were financed by private capital in this way. In Oakland, California, the Gandy bridge across Tampa bay was paid for by toll. Several have been constructed across the Missouri and the Mississippi, and now are free.

The plan is not limited to bridges. The Pennsylvania turnpike, extending more than a fourth the length of the state is a motorist's dream of a broad safe highway, built by private funds. Toll is collected at many points—those who use the road help pay for it.

Turnpikes are nothing new to this middle western country. Toll roads were common for heavy wagons and horse and buggy traffic. The toll gates—and their keepers added a very human part to travel in the old days. Why, even when I rode my bicycle six miles to high school and six miles home, I had to stop and pay a penny toll each way. The only consolation to my boyish fancy was that Katy Tollgate, as we called the keeper, always gave me more than the money's worth in banter and in energy as she raised and lowered the heavy pole that hung across the road.
